NAFCT Announces May Certification Event

NAFCT to host 3-Day Event at ARDEX Americas in Aliquippa, PA with Spanish Interpreter.

Gray Court, SC — March 22, 2023 — On the heels of a very successful certification event held at the end of February in Calhoun, GA at MAPEI's facility, the National Association of Floor Covering Technicians (NAFCT) will host their next certification event at ARDEX Americas in Aliquippa, PA. The event will be limited to twenty (20) attendees and will take place May 16th, 17th, and 18th. NAFCT is also excited to share that Daniel Ortiz of Lititz Flooring Company will be the Spanish interpreter onsite. Each attendee will have the ability to complete certifications for Subfloor Preparation and Resilient Modular Installation. The event is proudly supported by ARDEX Americas, Novalis US, LLC, Roppe Holding Company, and Divergent Adhesives.

May 16th – Subfloor Preparation

On May 16th, participants will attend the in-person training portion of the Substrate and Subfloor Prep Certification course. In addition to the in-person training, attendees will receive access to the online course curriculum so that they can complete the certification. Learning objectives for the Substrate and Subfloor Prep certification course include, understanding of: wood and concrete subfloor construction and components, problems and courses, thick pur gypsum underlayment and respirable silica.

May 17th and 18th – Resilient Modular Installation

Then, on May 17th and 18th, NAFCT will host the Resilient Modular Installation Certification training. This certification course provides both an online and in-person curriculum; designed to further develop the installers skills and knowledge for successful flooring installations of click, loose-lay, and glue down resilient products. Information will include product knowledge, terminology, adhesives, sound control, and product installation. As part of the certification process, attendees will participate in an installation evaluation to demonstrate hand-skills and installation knowledge.

Get Registered & Get Certified

Attending the certification event can be a valuable investment in your professional development if you are interested in improving your skills, obtaining certification, expanding your network, and staying up-to-date with industry trends.
